Course Overview

This half-day course is designed for Board Members, Senior Directors and NEDs who need a clear, practical understanding of artificial intelligence and it's impact on governance, strategy, workforce and risk.

The course will eliminate the hype and technical jargon to focus on what boards actually need to know today.

Content

The course will explain how AI tools, such as ChatGPT, custom AI assistants and emerging autonomous agents are already being used within organisations, often informally, and why this creates new governance and oversight challenges.

Directors will explore how AI changes decision support, productivity & risk exposure and how boards should think about accountability when humans and machines work together, with strong emphasis on:

- Directors' responsibilities
- Governance frameworks

- Human oversight
- Auditability
- Regulatory awareness

Live demonstrations will show how AI can be used to analyse board packs, review complex documents and surface risks, while reinforcing that AI supports judgement rather than replacing it.

The course will also provide a practical overview of GDPR, the EU AI Act and relevant UK guidance, framed specifically for boards operating in Guernsey and comparable regulated environments.
