Course Overview

This half-day course is designed for HR professionals navigating the growing use of AI in People Management which is often moving faster than policies and governance frameworks can keep up.

This course will show how tools can be used day-to-day while clearly highlighting where caution is required.

Content

The course focuses on practical HR use cases, such as:

- Policy drafting
- Employee communications

Flexible learning that works for you

E: admin@gtg.gg | T: 224570 | W: gtg.gg

- Workforce planning
- Training content
- HR administration efficiency

In addition, the course will explore the HR's role as an AI educator, workforce architect and governance partner and will provide a practical overview of GDPR, the EU AI Act and what "safe and responsible AI use" means from an HR perspective.

Delegates will explore where AI can go wrong in HR contexts (recruitment, performance management, employee data, decision-making) and how to put sensible guardrails in place.

A significant part of the training is dedicated to ethics, bias and people risk.

Benefits

To equip HR professionals with the knowledge and practical insights to confidently integrate AI into their strategies while maintaining compliance and ethical responsibility.
