Length

30 hours of online self-study over a period of up to 12 months

Course Overview

Contentious probate and trust cases are on the rise and family structures are ever more complicated.

This course, developed by expert practitioners, gives you the tools you need to deal more effectively with this type of work.

How do practitioners deal with increasing complex modern family structures? What can go wrong if a will or probate isn't prepared properly? How can you avoid or mitigate stress for your clients?

Make sure you're prepared with this interactive e-learning course, designed to support your work on contentious estates with bespoke, specialist content across a broad spectrum of subject areas.

Content

- How to deal with contentious estates

- Technical knowledge of the law surrounding contentious estates
- Practical application of the law and procedures involved

Benefits

- Control your own learning journey – this interactive elearning course is entirely online, so you can access it anytime, anywhere
- Study and learn at your own pace, with 12 months' access to the course material – learn whenever you want, and refer to it as many times as you need
- Test your understanding with self-assessment exercises, allowing you to gauge your progress as you work through the programme
- Demonstrate your new learning to your employer or CPD provider with a Certificate of Completion, awarded when you've finished the optional end-of-course assessment
